Oxfordshire life

Oxfordshire is one of the most desirable places to live and work in the UK. Its vibrant city, lively market towns and charming villages offer a choice of urban or rural lifestyles in an area famed for its architectural and natural beauty.

Home to the University of Oxford and Oxford Brookes University, the county is a global centre of excellence for academia and research. This in turn energises innovation in the many enterprises located close to campuses and in its science and business parks.

Excellent transport links ensure easy access to London, Birmingham and international airports via fast train links and motorways.

10 things you will love about Oxfordshire

Communities steeped in history: The UNESCO World Heritage site at Blenheim Palace, Oxford's dreaming spires, and Banbury Cross are just a few of the county's landmarks.

Beautiful outdoor spaces: Many towns and villages sit within the Cotswolds, North Wessex Downs and Chilterns Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty. Rivers and canals add to the landscape and offer many water-based activities.

Supremely well connected: The city of Oxford is an hour's drive from London and 45 minutes from London Heathrow, the UK's largest airport. Trains run frequently from Oxford's two mainline stations, linking it to London in less than an hour as well as to Birmingham, and the north and the south coast.

A fusion of traditional and modern living: The historic streets of Oxford and thatched cottages in rural hamlets don't mean you have to live in the past - nearly 99% of properties benefit from fibre broadband.

Museums and culture: A wide range of museums, galleries and theatres means you are never short of cultural opportunities to explore, including the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford and several National Trust properties.

Retail opportunities: The Westgate Oxford shopping centre and Bicester Village offer a wide range of global brands alongside exceptional dining and leisure facilities. Small independent traders can be found on many high streets, offering boutique products manufactured locally and from further afield.

Excellent educational opportunities: In addition to the two universities, there are many fantastic schools in the state and private sector, ensuring choice for all.

Safe and welcoming communities: Newcomers are welcomed by communities, with many people willing to offer help and advice. The county also benefits from low levels of crime.

Literary, TV and film connections: Home to filming locations for productions including; Inspector Morse, Harry Potter, His Dark Materials and Downton Abbey. The annual Oxford Literary Festival celebrates world-class writers in the city of Lewis Carroll, CS Lewis, JRR Tolkien and Phillip Pullman.

Gastronomical delights: From exquisite cuisine offered by Michelin starred restaurants to a pint of locally brewed Hooky Ale poured in the village pub, there is no shortage of places to eat and drink.

‘We moved here to work’

Emre Karaselvi

Senior performance engineer
Reaction Engines, Culham

I was working in defence aerospace in Istanbul when I heard about Reaction Engines and decided I would really like to work for an exciting hypersonic project. I followed the company for a couple of years and applied as soon as a suitable job came up.

It is quite hard to move to the UK from Istanbul at the moment because of the new visa rules and it is expensive to move a whole household, but the company was very supportive and made it all happen. It was also more complicated with a dog – we arrived with her by train via France.

I imagined we would be living right in the centre of the famous historic city of Oxford, but we really like living in Abingdon. There is lots of green space and plenty of history too. People are friendly, especially when you have a dog. My wife was anxious about finding a job, but she found one within two weeks. There are lots of employment opportunities here.

I use a car to get to work because the public transport links are a bit limited, and we also use it to explore Oxfordshire, for example visiting the Cotswolds and shopping in Bicester.

It is very unusual to find a company like Reaction Engines situated in green countryside. Similar organisations in other countries are in the middle of industrial areas. Oxfordshire combines a lot of scientific development in business parks surrounded by countryside.

It is not easy to find a house or a flat – the population is increasing quickly. In some ways I would say there is not enough housing development but on the other hand I like the green space!

There are many nationalities working at Reaction Engines and good gender balance. I really love the work there.

Lucy Norman

Design Engineer
Siemens Healthineers Magnet Technology

I moved here from Peterborough in the east of England in 2021. I didn't know the area, so when I came for the job interview, I stayed for the weekend, camping and cycling. I decided I really liked the Cotswold countryside with its pretty villages, coffee shops and pubs.

The company is based in Eynsham which is between Oxford and Witney. Not being a city person I quickly realised I would prefer to live in Witney. It has everything I want in terms of shops and amenities, along with access to lovely countryside for running and cycling. It's also easy to cycle into work.

It's quite competitive to find accommodation, but there are nice places to live. I rented at first and have now bought a flat.

It was easy to settle in – the company has lots of clubs and I also joined Witney Town hockey team. Sport is always a good way of meeting people.

At weekends I've enjoyed exploring attractions such as the brewery at Hook Norton Brewery which has a nice café and beautiful Shire horses. Waterperry Gardens is also a good destination with its gardens, free art gallery and shop.

There's a place here for you

Oxfordshire offers a wide range of properties to buy or rent. From studio flats in the city centre to large countryside properties with land, there is something for everyone. Oxfordshire has grown rapidly in recent years, resulting in many available new-build properties, but it remains the least densely populated county in the South East region.

Buying a property

Most properties for sale are sold through local estate agent companies. Many will place their listings online. The major property portals are Rightmove, Zoopla, and OnTheMarket. These allow you to search by location, price and type of property, as well as the details of the relevant agent to contact to arrange a viewing.

Renting a property

There is a mix of private and public rented property in Oxfordshire. The vast majority of people moving to the area will not qualify for public housing which has stringent requirements and often a long waiting list.

Private properties for rent are most often advertised through local lettings agent and estate agent companies in or near to the area where you wish to live and can also be listed on Rightmove, Zoopla, and OnTheMarket. These allow you to search by location, price and type of property, supplying you with the details of the relevant agent to contact to arrange a viewing.

Websites like spareroom.co.uk or social media platforms can be used to find spaces in shared houses.

Many people emigrating to the UK rent a property before deciding whether they would like to buy a home. A letter from an employer confirming income plus a deposit of one month's rent are standard requirements to rent a property.

Join the hotbed of talent

Oxfordshire has exceptionally low levels of unemployment. At 2.8% (May 2022, source: <https://insight.oxfordshire.gov.uk/cms/unemployment-claimants-may-2022>) it is almost 50% lower than the UK average, and the wide range of businesses mean that there are working opportunities for everyone, from school-leavers and graduates to post-graduates and researchers.

56% of the working-age population is educated to degree level or above (ONS, 2023). The high level of skill in the workforce means that companies working in some of the world's most innovative and fast-growing sectors have chosen to base their operations in Oxfordshire.

The focus on innovation has created a strong and resilient local economy, forming part of the Golden Triangle, encompassing the universities of London, Oxford and Cambridge, and creating a halo effect for fast-growing technology businesses, including many spun-out from the universities.

Going to school in Oxfordshire

All children in the UK aged 5-18 must receive a full-time education which is generally divided into three separate stages:

- Primary – between the ages of 5 and 11.
- Secondary – between the ages of 11 and 16.
- Post 16 – between the ages of 16 and 18.

Most Oxfordshire children go to free-to-use state schools and a very small number are educated at home by their parents. The county also has a wealth of well-regarded independent fee-paying private schools, some of which also have a boarding option. The Europa School in Culham offers a multilingual European education; its students study in at least three languages and take the International Baccalaureate.

Travel to school is a key consideration and it is important to investigate nearby schools when selecting an area to live. Schools in Oxfordshire usually have a 'catchment area' within which they accept children.

The school year in the UK begins in late August or early September and is split into either three or six terms. Each term is between about seven to 13 weeks long. Schools close for at least two weeks at Christmas and for two weeks at Easter. There are short breaks in the middle of each term, called half-term. The school year ends during July, when schools close for about six weeks.

Oxfordshire County Council is responsible for schooling in the county and administers school admissions. Further information here.

Essential information

Banking

To open a UK bank account, you will need to prove your identity and address. If you have recently arrived in the UK, banks may accept a letter from your employer or a letter confirming your National Insurance number. Find out more online from sites such as how to open a bank account.

Local services

Oxfordshire residents, like all those in the UK, are legally required to pay council tax to cover essential public services such as rubbish collection. The amount you pay depends on the size of the property. There are three layers of local authorities. Oxfordshire County Council is responsible for services such as education, transport, fire and public safety, and social care. The City or District councils take care of service such as waste collection and recycling, housing, planning and leisure services. At the local community level there are town and parish councils.

Health

The National Health Service is free for people lawfully resident in the UK. Treatment in A&E departments and at GP surgeries is free for all. Find out more here.

Tax

Use this link to find out about paying taxes in the UK.

Broadband

Oxfordshire has high levels of superfast broadband. Nearly 99% of properties benefit from fibre broadband.
